
TFT Wins Land Securities' London Portfolio Instruction

Tuffin Ferraby Taylor (TFT), the independent property and construction consultancy has been appointed as a framework project consultant for Land Securities' London portfolio.

TFT has been appointed as one of five project consultants to work in partnership with the in-house Project Surveyors, internal and external stakeholders and contractors to deliver project work which arises from the continued asset and property management of the portfolio.

This work will include capital projects and service charge funded works, ranging from front of house alterations to full CAT A renewals of Grade A office buildings. The projects will range in value and TFT will be responsible for delivering high quality project work, safely, on time and on budget to Land Securities' exacting standards and approved specifications.

David Mann, head of TFT's London office, comments: "This is a tremendous opportunity for TFT to work with a visionary client who is shaping the London market with some iconic landmark buildings. The scale of work calls for the sort of resource, experience and broader thinking which TFT has been developing over the years. We are looking forward to embedding ourselves as part of the Land Securities team and will be bringing a similarly imaginative approach to the extensive London Portfolio".

Richard Weavers of Land Securities, says: "TFT demonstrated the right mix of fit, skills and experience to support our in-house team. We recognise our key role as developers in London and welcome TFT's support as a like-minded project consultancy"
